I found it very difficult to find the approved software vendors to purchase the reporting software. In fact, I never did find it and even inquired with major insurance companies. Also, I do not think that we should have to pay for such software, if there is any out there. We are making the government's job easier by e-filing.

It is also time consuming to order the forms rather than using the website versions. I requested some forms and it took three times before I received the correct ones.

I am very in favor of e-filing of the Form 5500.
