General Comment

The issue I take with this and other government proposals like it is that a specific plan is not in place for the public to actually review. Your write-up is ambiguous, at best. At worst, it is intended to obfuscate more sinister intent. If this is not the case, why not make a full write-up of exactly what the proposal is, and let the public actually read it and make a decision, rather than having us comment on meaningless information that tells us nothing about what is actually going on. For this reason, I cannot recommend that this plan be taken seriously because no serious thought was given to letting the public read it.
