General Comment

I really don't think we need more regulations. I'm smart enough to plan for my own retirement, thank you! Even if I decide to use a financial professional, I fully understand that more regulations will most likely result in higher fees which means the advice of a professional becomes more out of reach for those who need it the most. I am perfectly capable of doing my own research to validate any advice given by a financial professional. Please leave this alone,
Thank you.
