General Comment

It is wrong, in our secular society, to allow religion to conflict with accepted medical practice. No exceptions! Contraception benefits and counseling actually prevent abortions. It seems that the Roman Catholic Church, long a condoner of child sex abuse among its priests, wishes to fill the world with unwanted children and encourage abortion, via their the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, who have planned to flood this site with thousands of "comments" in favor of a religious exemption. Last time I checked, our constitution still forbids the establishment of any religion. The Pope needs to rein in his own "employees" and leave the citizens of the United States alone. This goes double for our own home-grown "popes." E.g.—Pat Robertson, Jerry Falwell, Jr., etc. etc.
