Importance: High

As a benefits administrator, I'm definitely in support of continuing to allow electronic distribution of information to employees who have access to such as part of their job. Also, it's a big help with informing those retirees who have given us permission to send information in that manner. It's more timely, and certainly saves us printing and mailing costs.

We will print materials for any employee who asks for printed materials. The employee may also print the material at their work site. So, I don't think this is an issue for us. Thanks for asking for feedback.
