General Comment

I am in favor of this proposal. It will greatly improve people's lives. Let me explain: The US government has many unconstitutional laws which reduce freedom by forcing health insurance to not act as insurance companies but instead as government welfare agencies which take money from the healthy to pay for the ill. There are also laws in place to force consumers and health providers to support and associate themselves with a system that they in fact do not support (otherwise no law would have been necessary). This regulation will set people free from these laws when they attempt to buy insurance in groups instead of through an employer. This will bring down costs by a factor of at least 100x, as it used to be (before US government started meddling), and will make American great again!
