General Comment

It seems reasonable to me that when I choose to invest in corporate America that I would not want my money spent on causes I may or may not agree with. Let's allow the investors themselves to donate to any social causes they choose, but they shouldn't be forced to invest in causes they don't believe in. It is my sincere belief that much of the money spent on social justice causes is actually bribe money to prevent liberal groups and lawyers and company from suing or harassing them. This bill would be a step in the right direction to end this blackmail.
