General Comment

It is very wrong for the federal government to reduce and restrict investment options for 401K plans, specifically restricting plans that consider ESG impacts. I do not specifically favor ESG impact considerations; I do not specifically oppose considering these impacts. My concern is that this administration is constantly saying they support individual freedoms and liberties. They say individuals know what they need better than Washington could ever understand. This proposed action is in direct conflict with these ideals. No 401K owner should be forced to invest in any certain investment type and no one should be prohibited from investing in any specific type of investment product. Thank you.
