General Comment

To Whom It My Concern:

I am writing to express my opposition to RIN 1210 AB90. By changing how I get my pension information, this rule makes it difficult to receive important information about my pension.

This rule is unfair to those who do not have a computer or are unfamiliar with computer procedures. Pension information should be readily available to everyone in a pension plan. The proposed rule is a step back in making pension information easily available to pensioners and workers. I urge you to keep the current rule that provides for information by paper unless the pensioner and/or worker specifically request another method of being informed.

The Department of Labor is supposed to be protecting worker/pensioner rights and interests not undermining those rights and protections. Before you make any changes to the current rule you should talk to retirees/workers and ask us what we want and what makes sense. This is our information and we should be able to get it in the most easy and efficient manner.

Sincerely
Timothy L. Miller (pensioner)
