General Comment

My personal finances are just that; mine. Please prevent any outside parties, our government included, from dictating how I invest my own money. I came from a broken home, with no money. My mother went back to school and that showed me that I am the only one truly responsible for how I live. I paid my own way through college. I cant imagine a time when someone else tells me what THEY think is best for me.

In addition, I give to charities and causes. I dont shop at stores when I dont approve of how they run their business. I recycle. What I dont want is someone else telling me that I must support their priorities. The way I interact with society (as a member or a consumer) is my choice alone. I participate through support or lack of. Keep someone elses priorities away from mine.
