

PART IV

ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESSING OF CLAIMS, POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

A. THE CLAIMS PROCESS

4. PROCEDURAL ISSUES AT THE DISTRICT DIRECTOR OR THE HEARING LEVEL

a. General Evidentiary Matters

The Act incorporates by reference Section 23(a) of the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as amended, 33 U.S.C. §923(a), which precludes mandatory application of common law or statutory rules of evidence. 33 U.S.C. §923(a), as incorporated by 30 U.S.C. §932(a); 20 C.F.R. §§702.338-339, 725.450, et seq.; Cochran v. Consolidation Coal Co., 12 BLR 1-136 (1989); Darnell v. Bell Helicopter International, Inc., 16 BRBS 98, aff'd sub nom. Bell v. Helicopter International, Inc. v. Jacobs, 746 F.2d 1342, 17 BRBS 13 (CRT)(8th Cir. 1984). The administrative law judge generally is not bound by common law or statutory rules of evidence. 20 C.F.R. §725.455 (1984); 29 C.F.R. §18.44. American Coal Co. v. Benefits Review Board, 738 F.2d 387, 390, 6 BLR 2-81, 2-89 (10th Cir. 1984); Blawut v. The Youghiogeny and Ohio Coal Co., 6 BLR 1-511 (1983); Cochran, supra.

Implementing regulations provide that the administrative law judge is required, subject to objection by any party, to admit into the record all evidence that has been timely developed and exchanged in accordance with 20 C.F.R. §725.456. See Cochran, 12 BLR at 1-128. The Supreme Court held in Richardson v. Perales, 402 U.S. 389 (1971) that ex parte medical reports may constitute substantial evidence provided that certain procedural safeguards are met. For further discussion concerning the admission of medical reports, see Part III.A.4.d.e. of the Desk Book; for criteria concerning the ordering of a physical examination, see Part III.A.4.f. of the Desk Book.

It is within the administrative law judge's discretion to reopen the record for the submission of evidence. 20 C.F.R. §725.456(e); Lynn v. Island Creek Coal Co., 12 BLR 1-146 and 13 BLR 1-57 (1989)(en banc recon.)(McGranery, J., concurring); Toler v. Associated Coal Co., 12 BLR 1-49 (1989); Borgeson v. Kaiser Steel Coal Co., 12 BLR 1-169 (1989); Clark v. Karst-Robbins Coal Co., 12 BLR 1-149 (1989)(en banc); White v. Director, OWCP, 7 BLR 1-348, 1-351 (1988); Tackett v. Benefits Review Board, 806 F.2d 640, 10 BLR 2-93 (6th Cir. 1986).

CASE LISTINGS

[copies of medical reports may be accepted into evidence] Sullivan v. The Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal Co., 1 BLR 1-972 (1978); see also 20 C.F.R. §725.404(c).

DIGESTS

Reports prepared by the court of litigation are probative evidence and are not presumptively biased. Cochran v. Consolidation Coal Co., 16 BLR 1-101 (1992).

In considering a request to reopen the record on remand, an administrative law judge must determine whether a refusal to do so would result in "manifest injustice" against either party. Cochran v. Consolidation Coal Co., 16 BLR 1-101 (1992).

If the administrative law judge concludes that the documentary evidence is insufficient, it is within his/her discretion to leave the record open and take evidence or to remand the case to the district director to develop the evidence. Krizner v. United States Steel Mining Co., Inc., 17 BLR 1-31 (1992)(en banc)(Brown, J. concurring; Smith, J. dissenting).

Section 725.456(d) did not require the administrative law judge to exclude evidence, that had been withheld by claimant until the claim was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law Judges, where employer expressly waived its objection to the exhibits' admission. Dankle v. Duquesne Light Co., 20 BLR 1-1 (1995).

The administrative law judge is not bound by technical or formal rules of procedure, except as provided by the Administrative Procedure Act and Part 725 of the regulations. Johnson v. Royal Coal Co., 22 BLR 1-132 (2002)(Hall, J., dissenting).

The D.C. Circuit held that the evidentiary limitations set forth in the revised regulations at 20 C.F.R. §§725.310(b), 725.414, 725.456, 725.457(d) and 725.458, are consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act, which empowers agencies to exclude irrelevant, immaterial or unduly repetitious evidence, see 5 U.S.C. §556(d), and with the Black Lung Act, see 30 U.S.C. §923(b), incorporating 42 U.S.C. §405(a). These rules are not arbitrary, capricious, artificial, or inflexible, but rather enable the administrative law judge to focus on the quality of the medical evidence in the record. Nat'l Mining Ass'n v. Department of Labor, 292 F.3d 849, 873-874, 23 BLR 2-124 (D.C. Cir. 2002), aff'g in part and rev'g in part Nat'l Mining Ass'n v. Chao, 160 F.Supp.2d 47 (D.D.C. 2001).

As the adjudication officer empowered to conduct formal hearings and render decisions under the Act, an administrative law judge is granted broad discretion in resolving procedural issues, particularly where the statute and the regulations do not provide explicit guidance as to the action that the administrative law judge should take when the requirements of a regulation are not satisfied. Harris v. Old Ben Coal Co., 23 BLR 1-98 (2006) (en banc) (McGranery & Hall, JJ., concurring and dissenting), aff'd on recon., 24 BLR 1-13 (2007) (en banc) (McGranery & Hall, JJ., concurring and dissenting), citing Consolidation Coal Co. v. Director, OWCP [Stein], 294 F.3d 885, 22 BLR 2-409 (7th Cir. 2002); Freeman United Coal Mining Co. v. Benefits Review Board [Whited], 909 F.2d 193, 14 BLR 2-32 (7th Cir. 1990).

A party seeking to overturn an administrative law judge's disposition of an evidentiary issue must prove that the administrative law judge's action represented an abuse of his or her discretion. Harris v. Old Ben Coal Co., 23 BLR 1-98 (2006) (en banc) (McGranery & Hall, JJ., concurring and dissenting), aff'd on recon., 24 BLR 1-13 (2007) (en banc) (McGranery & Hall, JJ., concurring and dissenting), citing Consolidation Coal Co. v. Director, OWCP [Stein], 294 F.3d 885, 22 BLR 2-409 (7th Cir. 2002); Freeman United Coal Mining Co. v. Benefits Review Board [Whited], 909 F.2d 193, 14 BLR 2-32 (7th Cir. 1990).

The Fourth Circuit held that the administrative law judge properly exercised his discretion in granting a motion to compel discovery where the discovery request related to bias was appropriate, employer's allegations that the discovery requests sought irrelevant information and imposed burdensome costs were unsupported, and employer's own recalcitrance in refusing to disclose the requested discovery created any untimeliness issue under 20 C.F.R. §725.456(b). Consolidation Coal Co. v. Williams, 453 F.3d 609, 23 BLR 2-346 (4th Cir. 2006).

The administrative law judge generally is not bound by statutory rules of evidence or by technical or formal rules of procedure, except as provided by the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) and Part 725 of the regulations. 5 U.S.C. §556(d), as incorporated into the Act by 30 U.S.C. §932(a), by means of 33 U.S.C. §919(d) and 5 U.S.C. §554(c)(2); 20 C.F.R. §725.455(b). [V.B.] v. Elm Grove Coal Co., 24 BLR 1-107 (2009).

As the adjudication officer empowered to conduct formal hearings and render decisions under the Act, an administrative law judge is granted broad discretion in resolving procedural issues, including the admission of hearsay evidence. [V.B.] v. Elm Grove Coal Co., 24 BLR 1-107 (2009).

A party seeking to overturn an administrative law judge's disposition of an evidentiary issue must prove that the administrative law judge's action represented an abuse of his or her discretion. [V.B.] v. Elm Grove Coal Co., 24 BLR 1-107 (2009).

An administrative law judge has discretionary authority under 20 C.F.R. §725.456(e) to remand a case in order for the district director to satisfy its obligation to provide claimant with a complete pulmonary evaluation. The Board held that this remand order may be exercised, prior to the assembly of the evidentiary record at the formal hearing and without prior notice to the parties. The Board further rejected employer's assertion that liability for benefits must transfer to the Trust Fund because the district director had not satisfied its obligation prior to forwarding the case to the Office of Administrative Law Judges. R.G.B., et. al. v. Southern Ohio Coal Co., et. al., BLR , BRB Nos. 08-0491 BLA, 08-0521 BLA, 08-0463 BLA, 08-0464 BLA, 08-0465 BLA (Aug. 28, 2009)(en banc).
