General Comment

Wall Street criminals should be treated like any other burglar. There should be no exemption that allows criminals to continue to manage money. The more the American public learns about these awful laws legislated by wall street racketeers the closer we come to a tipping point of anger. We have our eyes on you racketeers so closely. Every little trick your used to get away with will no longer work. We want justice and we will not stop until we have it, no matter what flimsy legal barricades are put in place to protect the wall street mafia, the people will have justice one way or another. I suggest you get on the right side of history and hold the wall street mafia accountable. I suggest you uphold the ethical laws, strike down the unethical ones and protect the American public from the ravenous thieving wall street criminals who have wrested influence over nearly every facet of society. We are fed up and our patience is out. Protect us now.
